PREFACE

JOB COHEN

Amsterdam is the city of freedom. For centuries, people came to this city because they were persecuted elsewhere. Because of religion, origin or orientation.

On May 4th we take a moment to reflect on the history of exclusion. For the people who were taken away from our city during World War II. Together we say: That Never Again.

On May 5th we celebrate a future of inclusion. In which we realize again that we are not German, Jew, Dutch or Turk but, we are all human first. Together we say: We Are One.

Amsterdam must remain a city of freedom and tolerance. For black and white, liberal and religious, homosexual and heterosexual. Amsterdam is an open, free city. Together we must keep it that way.

Remember the past and celebrate the future. I hope to see you at the Silent March, at the commemoration of the Dam, or at one of the Freedom Meals in the city.
